CLASSROOM REVIEW:

Review Items:

Four-Year and Beyond Plan (5 minutes)

Check in with students and ask them to share any difficulties they are having completing their Four-Year and Beyond Plan. Brainstorm solutions for the problems they share. Remind them that this plan not only reflects their understanding of their academic and job-related future but also is a WA graduation requirement.

CLASSROOM ACTIVITY 1:

Career Cluster Review (5 Minutes)

Ask students to begin by finding their career interest marked on their new Four-Year and Beyond Plan and have them find the career clusters on last year's Career Goal Worksheet. If they do not have a career interest written on their Four-Year and Beyond Plan please have them do so at this time. Ask them to discuss as a group how and why their career interests may have changed. Remind them that everyone, even the adults who work at DPHS have changes in their career interests as time passes.

CLASSROOM

Career Cluster Update (15 minutes)

ACTIVITY 2:

Explain to students that the Junior year is a crucial time for students as they need to move from imagining their future to beginning to turn their imaginings into reality. The Junior year is an exciting, yet scary, time when the thoughts and decisions for this year begin to shape the rest of their lives. As a way to begin narrowing and expanding their career interest, direct students to find where their new career interests best fit within the career clusters on last year's Career Goal Worksheet. If their career interests have significantly changed so that no match is possible, direct students to look through their Where Are You Going? booklets to find a new match. Then, direct students to begin to fill out a Detailed Career Exploration as a way to begin to detail the future they are imagining for themselves. As students work issues such as these might arise:

I'm not sure what to do for my Culminating Project. Point out to students that their Culminating Projects should be connected to their interests and career goals. This is exactly the time to brainstorm what you MIGHT do next year. Make clear to students that what they write in the "Culminating Project" blank can always be changed.

I'm not sure where to find the "training detail" information. Explain to students that the "Education" column of their "Career Cluster" table contains numbers which reference various schools where they can receive training beyond high school. These numbers refer to pages 47-67 of the Where Are You Going? booklet where students will find school names and addresses. Information concerning "Years to Completion" students will also find in the "Education Column" of their "Career Cluster" table.

I'm not sure where to find the "tuition" and "living expenses" information. Explain to students that the tuition and living expenses columns are homework. Students should go to the school websites found between pages 47-67 of the Where Are You Going? booklet to find out tuition costs and recommended living expenses. Point out to students that it is NOW time to actively begin gathering information about their future beyond high school. What they plan for now will determine whether they will be in control of or a victim of their future.

CLASSROOM ACTIVITY 3:

Career Cluster Analysis (10 minutes)

As time allows, have students share their Detailed Career Explorations with a partner. Each partner should ask these sorts of questions:

How does your career choice fit with your interests?

What sort of classes have you taken and do you plan to take to prepare yourself for your career choice?

Where are some schools you could go to receive training for your career choice? How much will this training cost, including living expenses? Would you be comfortable living where these schools are located?

How realistic are the career outlook and wages for you in the future? 1 point for Participation, 1 Point for completed Detailed Career Exploration handout to be collected at the next advisory session on November 13th to verify that the homework was done adequately.

ASSESSMENT:

IMPORTANT NOTE:

Please return any unused Where Are you Going? booklets to Fred Smith's room # 405 this week. We appreciate it!
